

Finally
Sep. 25. 1905.

My dear Mr. Clark.

Very many thanks for your kind note, + good wishes.

I have had a very severe attack, but by good advice, + very careful nursing, I hope I am gaining strength. It will take some time before I recover.

The long winter months, + the severe cold has been very trying. I, also have often wished to meet you of late, + to have a long talk on Public matters, so when you are next in the North, I hope we may meet, perhaps you might feel inclined, if your work will permit it to drive out, + spend an evening with me. I am not strong enough to set up + write, so my wife is doing so for me.

I am faithfully Yours.

Mr. Kelly:
