3 Letter from John Benson to his brother in law Robert Mather ND. 5 April Refers to cholera epidemic and asks for news of his sister and of the colony.
Diary of Ann Mather 1802-1807, 1820-22, 1829-1831

Parts of a diary kept by Ann Mather. It is incomplete because, as her husband wrote to her brother, she had torn out most of the pages before her death. The parts remaining consist mainly of spiritual reflections and references to her illness. She describes their being detained for five weeks in Ramsgate in the ship 'Hope' on 8 December 1821: 'We are totally deceived in the owners'. On her daughter, Sarah's 18th birthday Ann noted that she dated her bodily afflictions from Sarah's birth, 'I took cold in my first lying in from the carelessness of the nurse'. On the birthday of son John, 11 July 1831 she noted that she had sent him to school to Mr Lindley for 12 months. She also refers to a visit from 'our missionary' Mr Hutchinson (21 July 1831).

Letters to Robert Mather from his wife, Ann, May 1825, Dec. 1827

Mainly about her health and prayer

Letters from Ann Mather to her son, Joseph, 20 Nov. 1827, 9 Dec. 1827, 29 May 1828, 8 June 1830

Mainly spiritual advice and education - she was sorry his father detains him from school in the shop, but hoped to persuade his father to permit another year at school and recommended rigid attention to his studies (1827). Also request to buy silk handkerchiefs for his father and nightcaps.

Ann Mather to her sons 27 Nov. 1830

Letter addressed to 'my very dear boys', containing moral and spiritual advice. Also another copy unsigned and unaddressed. (Found with her papers after her death)

Letter from Robert Mather to his son Joseph 9 1840

Letter to 'my son Joseph Benson Mather' with draft for rent in Sydney. He suggests that Joseph might return soon and asks him to remind his brother that his father was not too old to remember he had a son Robert. Also end of a letter on wrapper sheet with love to daughter Ann (wife of Robert Andrew) and signature, dated 1840.

Request to Mr Mather, Ralph's Bay Neck, to allow the Norfolk Bay boat across his neck on Government Business. 5 Jan. 1834
CAPTAIN JAMES DIXON

James Dixon (d. 21.11.1865, aged 78) was the brother of Esther Dixon, second wife of Robert Mather.

16 Letter from J. P. Gell to Capt. Dixon 18 Oct. 1843

J. P. Gell, secretary of the Tasmanian Society, to Capt. Dixon at Mr Mather's asking for a copy of his work for the Library of the Tasmanian Society [Narrative of a voyage to V.D.L. & N.S.W. by Capt. James Dixon, master of the 'Skelton Castle', pub. 1822].

Note on back: 'Notes from V.D.L. Sir John Franklin and Sir Eardley Wilmot, with paper on the growth of flax by R. Crawford'.

17,18 Dixon to Governor and reply 16 Feb. 1846

Draft of letter from James Dixon, Skelton Castle, to Sir Eardley Wilmot, Governor, on the cause of the depression in V.D.L. and advocating growing flax, etc. Also letter of thanks from the Governor.

19 Letter from W. Lansley to James Dixon 24 May 1856

W. Lansley, an acquaintance, was sorry he could not include 'your region of this great country' in his visit.
ROBERT ANDREW MATHER

Robert Andrew Mather (1815-1884) son of Robert and Ann Mather, married Ann Pollard (1820 - 1892) daughter of Theophilus Pollard and Ann (Lidbetter) in Sydney in 1839. Their children were: Samuel Robert (born 1843, d. infant.), Ann Benson (born 1845, married Shoobridge), Sarah Benson (1846 - 1875), Robert (1847 - 1913), Theophilus Henry (born 1849), Thomas Bourne (1851 - 1925), Joseph Benson and Anna Maria (d. infant) twins (born 1852), Jane Dixon (born 1854), George Lidbetter (1859-1864).

Robert Andrew Mather founded the firm of R.A. Mather, importers and family drapers in Liverpool Street, Hobart, in 1849. In 1876 he took into partnership his sons, Robert and Thomas, and changed the name to Andrew Mather & Co. In 1894 Thomas retired leaving the business to Robert.

60) 15 Aug. 1871 - heard of death of Joseph's sister's third daughter who appeared to prefer death to life but sorry to hear of poor health of her brother. Rev. Benson praised Joseph for his good works, his father's wedding day had been one of prayer and praise.

61 Testimony of the Hobart Monthly Meeting respecting Joseph Benson Mather, deceased Aug. 1890
Written whilst visiting Sydney under a concern approved by a special Monthly Meeting of the Society of Friends held at "Kelvedon", Great Swanport, Tasmania, on 13 June, 1839, when a travelling minute was issued (See S.1/11(1))
He left Tasmania on 7 Aug. 1839 on the "James" (diary entry 7 Aug. 1840).
He stated that the labours he believed himself called to do in Sydney were not generally of a public nature but lay much among the few persons there making profession with Friends, among whom the Good Seed, once sown, had become very much overgrown with weeds & were thus rendered unfruitful.
For his report, dd. 3 Dec. 1840, made to the Hobart ~eeting on his return to Tasmania, see S.1/11(1).
He lived with his brother & sister-in-law at the Friends Meeting House in Macquarie Street & gave details of each Meeting for Worship. These were held once on Thursdays & twice on Sundays, sometimes with background noises of children playing with horses in an adjoining paddock. He noted the number of people attending each meeting & commented on an unquakerly mode of dress, a frivolous hairstyle or restless behaviour with disapproval. The gay appearance of some members was 'very painful' to him when the Society of Friends generally set a pattern of plainness. He was concerned about a disowned Friend, John Tawell, offering a premium to Friends who will emigrate to this Colony. There are now several persons in Sydney who have come out at the instigation of John Tawell. Some birthright members, but some disowned, who are as stumbling blocks & hindrances...... The golden bait is taken by mercenary persons who so soon as they arrive here are so overwhelmed in the acquirement of wealth that nothing else is thought of by them'.
He arranged burials at the Friends' Burial Ground, 1½ miles away, sometimes hiring the man in charge of the adjoining Catholic ground to dig the grave & to attend the funeral with his ropes & planks. The coffin of their servant girl's mother was carried all the way on men's shoulders to save the expense of a hearse.
The Meeting House was occasionally used by the Temperance Society at whose meetings John Saunders, a Baptist Minister, lectured. The Governor, Sir George Gipps, chaired the Annual General Meeting & his wife set a good example by attending meetings & then signing as a member of the Society.
Joseph Benson Mather described daily life - family Bible readings, calling on friends, having visitors to dine, writing letters & taking them to the Post Office. He wrote of arrivals & departures of ships & visits on board. For example, William Boadle, the Quaker master of the "Bengalee", rperl his ship on total abstinence principles to keep good order among the crew. When visited on board in July he was grieving for his previous vessel, the "Siam", which sank on his last voyage although it had been considered perfectly safe only half an hour before sinking. Captain Boadle was, however, thankful that all lives were saved - his wife & children, who had sailed with him for the past seven years, had been taken out of bed & put into a boat in their night clothes. He observed that there were no other Meetings of the Society of Friends at any other 'foreign' port at which he touched.
Local events were recorded, including two big fires in George Street.
The celebrations for the 51st Anniversary of the Colony which were to be held on 27 Jan. (the 26th. being a Sunday) were postponed due to wet weather.
At the time of the Queen's Birthday festivities on 25 May, fireworks were prohibited under heavy penalty because of their danger. (The saving of waste was noted with satisfaction). Disapprovingly, he watched a procession to the site of a new Catholic chapel where a foundation stone was to be laid.
"The Town was put into a considerable state of excitement...... & the main street was crowded". School children walked two by two, each school headed by a flag-bearer & persons carrying wands, followed by men & women two by two, the women dressed in white caps. The long train was followed by the Bishop bearing his crozier & the priests dressed in spangled robes, accompanied by a band of music, in spite of a message from the Governor requesting that there might be as little display as possible. A young woman in the procession later died of sun-stroke through not wearing a bonnet.

Weather conditions were frequently mentioned. Very hot & oppressive days in summer often changed suddenly after a cold southerly wind called a Brickfielder. Mosquitoes were very troublesome. Continuous heavy rains caused bad floods throughout the town. The only sewer in Macquarie Street was a temporary one which emptied into a piece of waste land. It had become blocked & the Meeting Housecellar where stores belonging to a disowned Quaker grocer Abraham Davy, were kept, was badly flooded & the Meeting House suffered from rising damp & mildewed benches. Workmen were employed to pump out the water & dig a drain, on one occasion working until 10p.m. Joseph Benson Mather later helped to clean & re-arrange the cellar. It was very damp & dirty & the "effluvia arising therefrom was most unpleasant".

Just prior to leaving Sydney, he collected letters from various friends & acquaintances for delivery in Hobart, ruled some books to leave as Registers of Births & Deaths to save the necessity of sending to Tasmania for copies when required & made enquiries concerning the conveyance of the Meeting House property. Nothing could be done as the solicitor had still not heard about the Grant. He also wrote to a Friend, David Richards, about his request to build a cottage on the Friends' Burial Ground at his own expense & had later conversations with him. He called at the Colonial Secretary's Office about the Grant for the Burial Ground but they were awaiting the form of Deed from the Crown Law Officers. At last, having fulfilled all his obligations in Sydney he began to "feel like a free man, not being aware of anything.......left unattended".

DETAILS OF J.FRANCIS MATHER'S LETTER FILES (M.19/101,102)

JOSEPH BENSON MATHER

CORRESPONDENCE RECEIVED 1858-1884 (Alphabetical order)

Has sent copy of journal of late George Richardson of Newcastle on Tyne; valuable record 'but not a book to be read off at once.' Also Annual Monitors.
Received Francis Cotton's carte, asks for J.B.M's and encloses his own. His health, Friends' Meeting [York] - 259 members, details of meetings, classes, schools held by them.
From family of James Backhouse. Written sketch, 29 Jan. 1869, of his health during last two years and his peaceful death (Printed).

Purchase of 47 or 45 acres from G. Arnold at £1 per acre plus 1/5. Payment to be made by instalments.
Packing, shipment and sale of fruit, thrashing wheat, health of family.

Gathered from J.I. Dymond that the English Friends ('true gospel messengers') would be pleased if Hobart Friends could provide accommodation for their short stay as Adelaide Friends had done. In Melbourne they had preferred central lodgings. Dear old Friend Frederick Mackie there at present. Octavius enjoyed visit to Hobart and J.B.M's kindness. Letter from Ann Mather and mother. Visit from Lizzie Walker. Husband absent for some months, expected daily.

Has telegraphed - 'Please hold Annual Meeting at usual time .... Plans changed - 'Please hold Annual Meeting at usual time .... Plans changed, hopes to be in Tasmania before Meeting. Would like information about Friends and other matters 'in reference to your Colony' as entire strangers to the locality.
M.19/

101(21) J.I. Dymond. 29 May 1884
Refers to daughter Anna's marriage, memories of visit to Hobart, will entertain Ebenezer Shoobridge in Ilkley where he now lives. The London Yearly Meeting considered it a duty to help Canadian Friends in their 'divided condition' and several Friends (named) would visit.

101(7) From Tottenham, U.K. describing London Yearly Meeting, including address to Friends in Southern Hemisphere and Friends visiting Norway, Madagascar etc. James J. Neave and Walter Robson to visit Australia.

101(10) Hannah P. Fowler, Sydney. 26 October 1878.

101(9) Thomas Gibson. 18 April 1872.
Asking for cheque by return of post. Has to pay Bill lent to Mr. Spotswood on 24th.

101(11) O.H. Hedberg, Swedish House, Hobart, 19 Sept. 18?
Bill head.
102(15) William Horkin, Hobart. 14 Mar. 1854
Happy to be assistant in Mather's Shop if suitable.

101(4) Henry Hunter 18, Macquarie Street. 7 Oct. 1875.
Has inspected side wall of J.B.M's Liverpool Street premises (adjoining late Mr. Martin's property). Cause dampness in lower rooms due to accumulation of earth, excreta, refuse banked against wall for years. Also old privy, with cesspool under, built against wall and probably draining under his floors. Details of remedy suggested but very expensive.

101(3) Thomas Lidbetter, Bombay. 19 March 1861.
Attending supreme Court Criminal Sessions to give evidence against Hindu forger then returning to Kurachee (Sic) to wife and daughters. Difficulty of replacing governess.
Receives Hobart Town Overland Summary.
India in transition state - gradual opening up of Railway Communication, River Navigation and Irrigation.
Imposition of Income Tax - very questionable proceeding - and other taxes very unsettling for natives.
Too few Christians in India.
Fact of an Antarctic Continent seems thoroughly established in scientific minds, Lieut. Maury of Meteorological Fame urging desirability of further voyages of discovery in 'your Super Austral regions'. Opinion on Secession question in U.S.A.

101(10) Edward May, Adelaide. 5 June 1859.
News of friends in Hobart on brother and sister's return from there.
E.M. recently at Mount Barker. Met William and Mary at headquarters.
Two Months Meeting to reply to proposition of Meeting for Suffering, London, to constitute and acknowledge several Australian Meetings for Discipline as independent Meetings.
Two dissentients, so not accepted. Main objection - pecuniary liability.

Invitation Card to Annual Recitations.

Payment of cheque for £14 for ½ year's interest on mortgage to 11th April last.
