Guided Tour: A Study of Museums as Sites for Sustained Engagement

by

Michele C. Everett
AA BGS MA

Submitted in fulfilment of the requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

University of Tasmania
September 2009
Abstract

Museums today are faced with a number of challenges stemming, in part, from reduced funding and societal change. Consequently, museums are searching for ways to attract and retain visitors and deepen community engagement. The returning visitor is an increasingly important segment of the visiting public. This audience segment has received little attention in the research literature. This research explores the life experiences individuals have with a museum to understand how visitor/museum relationships form and develop, the ways in which returning visitors engage with a museum, the benefits that are derived from such relationships, and how these relationships are maintained over time.

As this study seeks to understand the individual’s experience and meaning-making in their museum visitation and life contexts, a narrative research approach is employed. This narrative inquiry examines the life stories of seven individuals’ sustained engagement with a single museum. Field texts were generated through interviews, observations, and researcher’s notes. Data analysis consisted of crafting individual narrative accounts and identifying thematic connections within and between cases.

This dissertation extends our understanding of the museum experience by providing novel insights into the ways individuals develop and sustain a relationship with a museum. Analysis of participant narrative accounts reveals that sustained visitor/museum relationships can form for people from varied educational and socio-cultural backgrounds, and at any age. This study provides new understandings about pathways to museums; specifically, the role significant others and friends who serve as informal cultural guides play in introducing individuals to museums. The narratives also reveal important insights into returning visitors’ engagement with a museum. These individuals engage in multiple ways and for multiple purposes. Furthermore, the nature of their engagement changes over time. This study documents the numerous and significant ways sustained engagement with a museum enriches people’s lives. Sustained visitor/museum relationships can meet a wide range of needs through various life stages and shape important connections to place and personal identity.

These novel insights into the ways visitor/museum relationships evolve through different life stages will inform museums as they strive to fulfill their charter to serve their local communities and to serve individual members of the community through their lifetime in that community. A better understanding of returning visitors can assist museums in facilitating experiences that meet specific needs, deepen engagement, and strengthen relationships with visitors. Such outcomes may support museums in their efforts to ensure a sustainable future.
Acknowledgements

Although words cannot adequately express my gratitude, I would like to acknowledge and thank the many people who have helped me on my research journey.

To my supervisor Professor Margaret Barrett, I would not have embarked on this endeavor if not for your encouragement. I feel extremely privileged to have had the opportunity to benefit from your wisdom, talents, and guidance. I cannot think of anyone with whom I would have rather shared this experience. And to Marg, I greatly appreciate your time and insightfulness.

To my family and friends, thank you for your ongoing support. Special thanks to James for your devotion, and for sharing your intellect and expertise. You could not know how much I value your contribution. And to my parents, you serve as my inspiration.

And finally, to my participants who shared so much with me about their lives and their engagement with museums, I will carry your stories with me forever.
Table of Contents

ABSTRACT................................................................................................................................. ii

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS........................................................................................................... iv

LIST OF TABLES......................................................................................................................... viii

LIST OF FIGURES ....................................................................................................................... ix

CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY ................................................................. 1

   Narrative Beginnings .............................................................................................................. 1

   Background to the Study .......................................................................................................... 6

   Significance of the Study .......................................................................................................... 9

   Research Aims and Objectives of the Study ........................................................................... 11

   Research Questions .................................................................................................................. 11

   Summary .................................................................................................................................. 12

   Organization of the Study ........................................................................................................ 13

CHAPTER TWO: RESEARCH CONTEXT................................................................................. 14

   Introduction ............................................................................................................................... 14

   Cultural/Arts Participation and Museum Visitation ................................................................. 14

      Cultural and Arts Participation ............................................................................................ 14

      Museum Visitation ............................................................................................................... 21

   Engagement in Museums .......................................................................................................... 34

      John Dewey: Conceptual Foundations of Engagement ....................................................... 34

      Current Theories of Engagement in Museums .................................................................. 40

   Summary .................................................................................................................................. 49

CHAPTER THREE: METHODOLOGY AND DESIGN............................................................. 50

   Overview .................................................................................................................................. 50

   Methodology ............................................................................................................................ 50

      Exploratory ........................................................................................................................... 51

      Qualitative ............................................................................................................................ 51

      Narrative Inquiry .................................................................................................................. 52

   Case Study ............................................................................................................................... 56
Description of the Study

The Setting .................................................................................................................. 57
Participants .................................................................................................................. 58
Data Generation .......................................................................................................... 61
Data Analysis and Interpretation - from field to research texts ................................. 69
Trustworthiness of the Study ....................................................................................... 74
Wakefulness .................................................................................................................. 74
Introduction to the Narrative Accounts ...................................................................... 75
Summary ....................................................................................................................... 77

CHAPTER FOUR: NARRATIVE ACCOUNTS

The TMAG – “a quirky place” ...................................................................................... 78
Cecilia – “a place to lift your spirits” ........................................................................... 84
Sarah – “nature’s child” ............................................................................................... 102
Jasmine – “I just love it” ............................................................................................... 115
Zoë – “time with dad” ................................................................................................. 126
Mary – “quest for knowledge about history” ................................................................. 145
Diana – “appreciation for nice things” ......................................................................... 168
Virginia – “the butterfly emerged” ............................................................................... 186
The TMAG – “leaving” ................................................................................................. 205

CHAPTER FIVE: DISCUSSION

Introduction .................................................................................................................... 207
Findings ........................................................................................................................ 208
Research Question 1 .................................................................................................... 208
Research Question 2 .................................................................................................... 217
Research Question 3 .................................................................................................... 228
Research Question 4 .................................................................................................... 241
Research Question 5 .................................................................................................... 258
Summary ....................................................................................................................... 262
CHAPTER SIX: CONCLUSION ........................................................................................................ 263
  Summary of Findings .............................................................................................................. 263
  Implications for Museum Practice ....................................................................................... 265
  Recommendations for Future Research .............................................................................. 268
  New Understandings about Research, Place, and Self ......................................................... 269
REFERENCES .......................................................................................................................... 274
APPENDIX A: RECRUITMENT MATERIALS ........................................................................... 293
APPENDIX B: INFORMATION SHEET/CONSENT FORM TEMPLATES ................................. 296
APPENDIX C: INTERVIEW GUIDES ....................................................................................... 302
List of Tables

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3.1 Description of Participants</td>
<td>61</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.2 Data Generation Methods</td>
<td>68</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.3 Narrative Analysis Framework</td>
<td>70</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
List of Figures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Figure</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2.1 Conceptual Model of Arts and Cultural Participation</td>
<td>16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.2 Behavioral Model of Participation</td>
<td>17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.3 The Value System Surrounding Arts Participation</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.1 The Tasmanian Museum and Art Gallery</td>
<td>78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.2 Henry Gritten, Hobart Town, 1856</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.3 Lisa Garland, Mr &amp; Mrs Dick, 2004</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4 Adolphe-William Bouguereau, Cupid and Psyche, 1889</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.5 Mish Meijers, Byte, 2005</td>
<td>138</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.6 Hamilton Inn couch c. 1820</td>
<td>156</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.7 Thomas Napier, Woureddy and Trucanini, early 1930s</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.8 Work table c. 1845</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.9 John Glover, Mills Plains, Ben Lomond, Ben Loder and Ben Nevis in the Distance, 1836</td>
<td>201</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.10 Benjamin Duterreau, The Conciliation, 1840</td>
<td>202</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>