Dear Andrew,

I have not time to ~~write~~^{write} to you at length by this mail as I am exceedingly busy & the rest of this week shall be hard at work till midnight getting up evidence in an important case of fraudulent insolvency. I dare say I shall find leisure to write on Friday.

Please remember me kindly to Mrs

Clark the Writon & Joy - do you get the newspapers I send?

I have not yet been able to lay my hands upon the verses - I suppose they will turn up when least expected but you can imagine that my many wanderings do not tend to make certain the locale of any particular article

In great haste

believe me

your affectionate friend
