3 July 1885

My dear Andrew,

My last letter will have prepared you for the request I am about to make. My brother has left me without funds; the expenses of the winter have been more than usually heavy & I find myself very hard pushed & about £6 short. Can you lend me that ^{by return} sum ^{until} the end of the month? Do not however think of doing so if it will cause you any inconvenience, as I daresay I could get it from some money-lender, but I wish to avoid the humiliation & expense of doing so, if possible.

I expect to be able to collect about £80 or £90 for my brother here shortly & then I daresay he will put me in funds.

I find I omitted one or 2 points in my recent letters to you & your firm which I can now supply.

1. With regard to Piano-contracts. I find the following in my notes:-
 - (a) Creditor may retake on Insolvency. re Blaughard exp Hattersley & Ch. Dir. 1805
 - (b) If some instalments paid, the Piano does not pass to the Trustee on Insolvency; O'Haway v Hamilton 47 L.J. (Q.B.D.) 424-

(c) see also Cramer v Singer Corp
- & re Robertson exp. Cameron of Ch. Div. 419

re Ponell v Matthews (no reference) (d) Ironkeeper has been on record
plans, tho' he is not bound to receive it.
Storfall v Borwick L.R. 7 Q.B. 711
- 10 St. Div. 210

(e) Measure of Damages

Cramer v Giles (Notes of Cases 6 Nov 83)
Turnbull v Johnson 3 CPD 264

(I do not know of any Colonial cases)

Such a Contract of Hiring would not require to be registered in this Colony unless the Vendor retained possession or took possession

Within 6 months (A.O.T. No 537. d. 15.16)

Your firm will of course receive the usual allowance on my agency business that you send to Mr. Smith.

I have just finished your Copy on Romwell & am to hand it to Witton to morrow. It is a fine production & has been of great use to in enabling me to form a proper estimate of the "immortal rebel".

Think of us (Witton & me) to morrow.
We will be with you in spirit & will drink a toast to the day & its apociations.

With love to Mrs Clark & the children & hoping to hear from you soon, I am, Ever Affectionately Yours
A. Inglis Clark Esq. Hon. Hobart Tas.
