At 6 a.m., all the men of the party were up and ready to proceed on their journey. The sun was shining brightly, and the air was fresh and invigorating.

At 7 a.m., we started from the camp, and after a short walk, arrived at the first post, where we were furnished with provisions for the day.

At 12 noon, we reached the second post, where we were again supplied with fresh provisions.

At 3 p.m., we arrived at the third post, and were treated with cordial hospitality by the officers in charge.

At 5 p.m., we continued our journey, and arrived at the fourth post, where we were again provided with provisions for the night.

At 7 p.m., we settled down for the night, and were sound asleep in a short time.

The climate here is very pleasant, and the air is invigorating. The men are all in good health, and the party is in good spirits.

Mr. Thomas, the left eye has about every two or three weeks, for several successive periods, passed back—another little yellowish spot appearing on the lower inner part of the Cornea. The other eye has improved without alteration in the substance of the Cornea.

To continue drops by 1/4th a day.

Henry Grant

The patient continues in perfect health.

Note—The manner in which the eyes are red in the left Cornea, but at low part of Right it is heard, but not distinctly. The shot of head is very hard, but said under left Mamma, but not heard over right. The patient said, He has a Copious stunt with about 1/4 of Grub, has a small Hemorrhage on the external to the Cornea, the cornea very pitted to the latter half comes away along with it after a little effort. The field glass lost its eye to Mr. Raikes.
