My dear Jones,

I am indebted to have thanked you last week for the present once but was prevented by various and am nearly to the same position. I have seen him but it is a long time to write a few lines.

The bone has been much admired. It is the best very gentle and I think it becomes the skill in our room and very cheap. The green prints are neat and pretty particularly the light one while it suits you to get her a blue hand and some trading. the same as that you sent for. What do you think of him? Perhaps you will be so good as get one a few days. A little black suit and a few yards of white does the trick. Little matters for little. I should like also a pair of white cotton socks for her. I do not care for anyone as the men. But for the rest I hope the time will be long to be spent for her.

I did not find the letter or the opium among the things he had. I will write John and ask him if he can find it for me. I would like to be able to give her some account of him. As she has been absent so long.

The one is now something taken. I wish you were here to help me and give me your suggestions. I have not been over the house once since I have left it. I have not been over it to know whose it is. The rest of the fire or the things that I have to do at night and begin on his things tomorrow. I do not know whether it is possible or not to have it done before I come and

... and some things — I like the evening, a quiet deal better than I do the

... much time in the little boy — if you have ... an opportunity of sending a small box of needles and thread better that the worst

... cheap stuff, perhaps the time will be

... I think of the little boy. The box of

... at the ceremony. She seems

... the things, perhaps John will

... I do not wish her to cry, plain

... able to give me some account

... the fire or the things that I have to do at night and begin on his things tomorrow. I do not know whether it is possible or not to have it done before I come and The same as that you sent for.

I have written, perhaps you will be as good as get one a pair of white Adapt. and a pair of white Adaptes for the child. I wish you did not want for more as they were not put tight just yet. And I have sent the pet.

to go down to be kept for them.

I shall not find the table or the reg.

among the things, perhaps John can do it. He thinks he can do very plain decoration but I am not sure how accounts are.

If they are, it is more something to him. I wish you were here to tell me and will inquire about them for to see when I come. I don't know one. I have cut out his name to the head of the door or the dressing and beg you to write tomorrow our call. I fancy myself large but not know whether his Coward to the sun. I see before I am not found you the book to pay for. I am the side of a house.

Johns things. — I have the city of a great deal better than I have the Little March. Given on the letter age than in the piece. — If you have an opportunity of finding a small scarf you had better get the other shad. I have put for before the thing is lost.

I sherd at the springs. This week I meet Mrs. Brown, who is out on a visit at the Springs. He seems to be the same. You are kind to be the side of a house.

John I am taking to say whether you think in much better spirits than he old some time back he says he is also spending his time more profitably and feels his health much better moreover, he has promised to come up again at soon as he can he seems very fond of me and the children I visited mother I have not seen any of the things you kindly sent has them all good except gaine this to be let her very much I told her to turn in yesterday and she be honest very well, when asked she that she has to the said you see and in a book. — This paper is full and I am well for now it is not should not know when to stop when writing, my darling, ever your affectionate Mother Ann