has garden

5/7/91.

This day, dear Dr Hory, I have forwarded to you Ro-
barton ~~some~~ a case
full of plants.

Please put the Cinchonas into a frost-free valley (just into the wild bush)
to let them have their chance, in a sheltered
position, where no frost occurs. I believe the plant

would become naturalized on such
spots

The Glumaceae from your locality will
still come in time,
as I have made hardly any progress with phytographic work
since the last 20
months, the confusion
in my department
leaving me no spare
time

It is sad, that one of your staple produce

such as the Apple, should have suffered so much,
as it must afford
the income for what districts materially
for the time

It was unfortunate that I forgot to send <sup>you</sup> the rhubarb in your case.

Do algae drift
up on your shores?
If so, can you oblize
by drying without washing & pressing
alot of them on open boards or chelves and send them roughly packed to me. I can prepare them here.

With best regards
Frederick Mueller

The Nut of Mar-
adamia is delicious.

I am much interested in the Linchona experiment
