Dear Joe, Mother stowe.

Mr. Todd called for the Pot at 4 p.m. and stayed to tea. Mr. Todd wanted to have the school closed, so he came home. Mr. Todd called again at 6 p.m. and I gave her a proposal to excite the children to paint. I asked her to stay and have cake and fruit.

Mr. Todd came to call twice in the week. Made 1 1/2 gallons.

Wednesday [1891-07]

Been sick all day with headache and toothache. My head feels as if it were going to explode. There is a loud noise in my ears. I can't hear anything clearly. My vision is blurred. I feel like I'm going to faint. My body aches all over. I'm fatigued and exhausted.

Thursday [1891-07]

Today was a particularly challenging day. I struggled with a severe headache that wouldn't go away. The pain was so intense that I was unable to concentrate on my work. I tried to take some over-the-counter medication, but it didn't provide much relief. I also dealt with a lot of stress and anxiety, which made the situation even worse.

Friday [1891-07]

Today was the most strenuous day yet. The headache persisted throughout the day, and my body felt extremely fatigued. I tried to maintain my composure, but it was difficult. I had to take several breaks and try to relax. Despite my best efforts, the headache didn't go away.

Saturday [1891-07]

I was feeling better by the end of the day. The headache had subsided, and my body felt more rested. I was able to complete some tasks, but I still had a lot of work to do. I tried to stay positive and focus on my goals.

Sunday [1891-07]

Today was the most restful day of the week. I was able to take some time off and relax. I went for a walk in the park, which helped me feel more refreshed. I also spent some time reading a book, which was a welcome distraction.

Monday [1891-07]

I woke up feeling refreshed and energized. The headache was gone, and my body felt strong. I was excited to begin the week with renewed energy and focus.
Tuesday [199-207]

Two days had passed and nothing of interest had been done. I went to the library and read some books. I was feeling bored and decided to go for a walk.

Thursday [208-216]

I went for a walk in the park and enjoyed the fresh air. I saw some birds and watched them fly. It was a pleasant day.

Friday [217-225]

I spent the day at home, reading some books and writing some notes. I was feeling relaxed and content.

Saturday [226-234]

I went for a walk in the park again and enjoyed the beauty of nature. I was feeling rejuvenated.

Sunday—[235-243]

I went to church and attended the service. It was a peaceful and thoughtful day.
