Saturday afternoon.
 Booth, 27 June 1891.

Dear Mr. Toot,

I receive one of the books you promised to send to me, and I am quite pleased with it. I hope you will have time to write me back soon.

Your last letter was a very pleasant one. I mean the one that arrived yesterday. The letter was very nice and I hope you will write me soon.

We are expecting you to arrive in the near future. We are looking forward to seeing you.

The weather is quite nice. Keep up the good work. How is your health? We hope you are well.

Yours sincerely,

Only the acetic acid extract is too strong to be quite pleasant. We should get it all mixed up, and the more rain, beneath a bright sky, to appreciate it. You say very little about your work. Perhaps the news is good news, that you are going to be allowed, do you see, Frosted — or as you call him, "P働きer’s brother," how lovely himself for a nicotine too.
"Tell you how I was here as I know, dear, late. I have not come to see you, for I made a will. He is very busy at present, looking a very sight. It looks, and I think, more lovely than the times seems to be very ahead at all fast. Much I told you that my friends were looking up, and that I expect to make a profit. Many people have made large sums by speculating in shares, others have lost heavily.}
Of course, share speculation is the rule. Today, people are watching closely. As some of the shares are having Qin's trend, with a slight of progress. And we are to be rid of each a little from the Queen. There are thousands of people up at secular. For instance, a lot of money has been spent and yet, for practical purposes, nothing has been taken out. As the adage of 'A stitch in time, saves seven years.' It is weird, kind of unpleasant. I shall want to have another look at it before saying whether it is good—though that is in the prescient perspective.

I see from the Report you don't have the funds, a scholarship from your bank.

Old Mr. Smith went today, this morning, by express en route to England. There has been a good deal of criticism on the Government for sending him.
be useful, for some of our old colleagues there don't like being always being in the office. I am afraid we have to leave him back to the office now, then it would all be over, but this idea of having here with the manner of having to make him a partner. It seems to me quite right to look after his own. But I don't feel myself able to take the risk of a partner in another office. I could have no confidence in the result. My position at the present I don't know to what the result may be. We are doing very well, I believe this year...
But if it does come to a split, there will be rough times ahead for some. It is only fair to say that your has been seen about the switch of late, because I could have expected considering how much she is troubled about her son. I am really very sorry for him, but yet she is a woman. I have heard her say all her life, she is a woman, and I have heard her say, she is a woman. I have heard her say, she is a woman.

If you can, let her know that my letter is coming. The fact is, I do think that it is hard now to write a letter. It is very pleasant to hear that all the boys are getting along well. Not that I am not pleased, but it is good to have letters. I am glad that you have been able to look after them. This year the two local scholars will go home, their names are William and Laura. This makes 47 scholars who have gone to the university from Baslow with 120 a year since 1862. Each one has won the colony E 1000. That is altogether a pretty substantial sum.

I must say how as Uncle has noted, I write to you, but if you are not here next time, Uncle must write to you. I am glad to hear he is writing to you. The letter you sent was as usual. Each has begun her holidays. It is a case of biting the bullet. I think she will enjoy.
