My dear friend -
Another dear letter from you. How long to pay for one short visit - to visit with you all one evening.
That I might sympathize with you both in your cases, and show that I love you -
We were quite concerned at the mournful tone of the winged messenger. The dear wife ailing, & care-worn, yourself not growing young again, & your children - not all healthy, & bereft of their teacher.

Have you seen ^{Gas 10th Norwich} ~~any~~ ^{St 28th mo. 1851} edition of Geography? I receive golden harmonies at Sydney Adair.
If no review has appeared, I think get one, or get ^{indicated a copy of} ^{get the same copy in the paper} a copy of Sydney Adair's ^{to you} ^{to get} the book into the High School do not to get. I doubtless aid is the Board way. Mark with my Shilling Geography will be out. This will sell well in Primary Schools.
A Shilling Geography with some follow.
A Reading book will come next for our Lane body. I must work My day may not be long. A private bit of news - I am soon about bringing out a Religious work which I know will please you - It is a collection of papers or chapters upon Scripture & other Religious Subjects.
No one knows of this at present & we have both a young little one Siddley for dear friends. Yours affectionately

What can I say, or do?
I can tell you I feel for
you. - I can beg you to remember the promises of comfort to weary and heavy laden Saints. - I can bid you look back to those sweet ones in the moral desert of life, when you stand of the living stream of joy & peace, flowing from the Divine Word. - I can entreat you to advance by faith a few more years. & then gaze upon the glories of an eternal scene. - I can whisper to you, how on some sweet day, in the dear bowers of bliss, you will grasp the hand of that dear wife, & feast upon peace smiles, / reflections from the joys of the throne, you will talk gratefully of the shortness of human existence; - I can say all this. - & I can pray for you.

I thank God a kind
Father, we are all well - My School improves, my friends increase, my hopes rise. When I am released from debt here & is old.
My mind will be more free.
But now I am grateful & happy. How much better for us than there are desires!
