

Left my box to send Miss Anna Knott when I am always meaning to write to Miss Petty & Emma Knott yesterday I must also write to you all now to let you know how I have been here from Miss Knott yesterday about 3 o'clock Here, signified Mrs Atkins Charles Atkins mother. I had been staying with Miss Knott for the last four night & enjoyed being with her very much. She was so very affectionate & nice — though used to like her very much, ~~wasn't there~~? & she seemed to remember me very affectionately.
I am very fortunate in finding people ~~so~~ exceedingly kind to me wherever I go. I have much to be thankful for. Now I have got here, I find Miss & Mrs Atkins so very kind — making so much of me.

W 181/12. 30/3 trying in every way they can to make me enjoy my visit & anxious that I should see all the delightful interesting places in which this neighbourhood abounds & that I should have opportunities for sketching what I see, which makes it so much more exciting to me. To day they took me to Kenilworth Castle - & I need hardly tell thee, the day has been one long rapture. Mrs. Atkins took us over in the carriage about 11 this morning. Miss Atkins & I took our sketch ing materials & over lunch & went meant to make a day of it. Kenilworth is four or five miles from Leamington, & the drive was along roads shaded by tall elms, & running between hedges & fields, green & vivid green or pale yellow for the end of the harvest. We passed one of the stately homes of England as Mrs. Deans would have called it - a great house standing amongst magnificent clumps & avenues of trees -

Thursday evening I broke off here & the next day we went to Warwick Castle the absorbing interest of which has rather obliterated the impression of Kenilworth. I wrote ~~you~~ you up yesterday an account of Warwick on the last two sheets. Now I must leave Kenilworth for another time. I am writing a long letter Edith Pinolt this morning & I have been in a fidget all the week because my letters didn't arrive but I got them this morning - delightful ones from Dah & Nimm & Hannah they seemed each particularly nice, will now thank them severally. Dah says his nieces are more now than she did at first. That is just my case. I miss you all much more than I did at first & think in my case how the loss is multiplied. If I am like that now amidst all the pleasure I have had lately what shall I be like when I get into those dingy London lodgings near the Slack that I am looking forward to? But sufficient unto the day is the evil there off - I missed James's letter this week custom has made me expect it.

Give him my love & tell him not to break thro' a good habit. Lizzy & I are very irregular correspondants there is not the least reason why they should be. Let Dah to mind & look after Isabel Atkins who has just got to Hobart her people are most kind to me. Heris Atkins is a most amusing little old lady. She is quite a character. She leads her daughter rather a life but I am afraid it all entertains me. When I look round on other people's mother I find none of them to compare with my own. Therefore (as I can't replace thee) take care of thy little self. I think the Bath cedar is a grand tree. In England they are so very common here you see them standing in rows a long the sides of the streets or hire. Q old ladies (& young too) go out in them as naturally as you please. I should

Send my love to Aunt Amy & Meredith who I am always meaning to say to Miss Petty & Emma Carlton I must all write you ~~to~~^{my} love as soon as I can. I have had time to see you & everyone to write. They poor absent
Mary & Walter

I told her ~~her~~ ^{the} love to see you & everyone to write. They poor absent
Mary & Walter

I had written to you all yesterday & expected being with her very
kind — there used to like when writing me & when I wrote to her. I used to remember them being affectionate.
I am very fond of her & finding people talk ~~about~~ ^{of} her she where ever I go. I have much to be thankful for. Now I have you here, I find her & Maria & Charles do very kind making up much of me.
