

Advs

Poems

by

Louisa Anne Twamley

with

Original illustrations

Drawn and etched by the Authoress

---

These poems, which are the productions of a very young authoress, have met with the decided approbation of several of the first literary characters in Great Britain - They are published under the immediate patronage of Saml Rogers Esqr, the celebrated author of the "Pleasures of Memory" - the illustrations, which were not only painted but engraved by the Authoress evince a degree of pictorial talent, which, taking all circumstances into consideration, was perhaps never excelled -

When the ship that brought the copies for sale in this colony, sailed, the Book was on the eve of publication - Its appearance was expected to be hailed by the reviewers as a work of Extraordinary Merit. The greater part of the poems were written before the authoress had completed her 17th year-

---

(The Publisher is particularly desirous that the above be advertised in the Hobart Town papers -)