My dear Anna Maria.

Soon after waking this morn. my thoughts reverted to home, and I thought I would avail myself of the morning to compose a letter to thee - Joseph Trust was favored to return home in safety and to find all of you well - and he will supply the news up to the time of our final leave-taking, except that he cannot fully declare to you all the goodness of the Lord to me, his unworthy servant.

I had scarcely an hour's sleep, and had to see about our starting in time, and I believe but for that we should have missed the boat which was changing horses at the time of our arrival in Ross; - I had just time to do all that was needful in Anneton before the vessel sailed, and Walter Ball kindly secured me the easiest berth in the ship. - At Campbell Town, the good headed me a letter from dear J. B. de - very comforting - and bearing me a heartly invitation to our Friends Samuel and Sarah Levitt - truly kind they are, the wife (who is afflicted with deafness) especially so.
I have seen and visited P. Sayer & Capt. Wedd.

As we went down the Tamar, the Capt stated that we should have a very rough passage, and sent the seamen up to secure the sails with additional gaskets, also sent down the main topmast, and I thought that it would have been wiser to brogue up George Joan. But as we neared the heads I saw the S. W. indications in the clouds and said to Col. Stephens I believe that we shall have a S. W. breeze, pointing out the indications.
Shortly after we saw the Chassis (the actors) who were passengers, and were anxious about the weather. Col. S. stated my views, and we then adjourned to the barometer, which was rising and which I said was our reprover rose for southerly weather; after this I pointed out the setting seen to Col. Stephen as verene though indicating abruze: - and so it proved - we were able to set our canvas over after night fall and arrived at the Queens Wharf about 10 o'clock I was not absolutely sick, but suffered from nausea, and took nothing but a cup of soup till we had Tea going up Hobsons Bay.

I did however suffer a little from my bodily infirmities, - but not much. I took a walk at the loberg in company with a passenger who lived at St. Hilda, and was known to Col. Stephens (who was very attentive to me), and was set down at St. Lewis's door.

It seems to be the feeling of very many that 1st March would have been the better time for the Annual Meeting. J. J. Neave is expected down by the "Aldinga" due this morning - and which vessel is expected to sail for Adelaide on fourth day next at 2 o'clock. On that day E. Sage's eldest daughter is to be married - You will ⁱⁿ remember that I said to her I looked forward to be in Adelaide on first day the 15th and it does seem as though I may be. There however, that this is no contrivance of mine, should it be so: - but Oh! I had had abundant evidence through divine condescension to confirm my faith in the rectitude of my movements.
May the Lord forgive my faithlessness! send help from his sanctuary and strengthen me out of Zion. My views are still the same - to attend the Annual Meeting here - and then as far as I can see I shall be clear of this place. "Blessed be he that doeth the work of the Lord discreetly" - Pray for me, all of you bear me or your prayers to the throne of grace, that I may be strengthened, with might by the spirit of the Lord, with inner man, to declare unto others the whole counsel of God, as such ~~as~~ shall be revealed to me.

James Hobbes has just called in. He seems in a poor state of health. His family live close by. and I am going to call upon them. and then intend to go on to Melbourn. and enquire about the Eldings and our English friends - after which I think I shall go to Perleberg and call upon W. & A. Chapman.
The cost of travelling is light - Railways abound and travelling cars - &c. - therefore to almost all places. The Country seems covered with Houses. and how all men ought to find employment. I live. I cannot tell.
Truly, it is a wonderful country.

I called on Mr Rasche yesterday and delivered James's message to him. He does not seem to meet with the encouragement, I think, due to his talent. He wishes James to come over and join him in engineering.

I have not yet called in. I I cannot just yet and don't see how can I manage to call on every one. I wish to be present in some way offener, but it is unknown for an old man to make so many calls.

10th Friends have a dinner in the House at Melbourn. what was well filled. on first day. our English friends were present and had good service: they are very young. J. J.
Macrae about ^{1800. 25} 35 - but very devoted. and has a good delivery: Our Divine Master was in his abundant mercy pleased to preside. and not only that, but since, certain been blessed with heavenly meetings. Truly meet (not may) ^{it be said} "the Lord hath visited his people".

 The Annual Meeting was held yesterday on rather commences. at 7 o'clock and held till about 20 minutes to ten, being chiefly occupied in preliminaries. - reading certificates &c. and in the breakings forth of acknowledgments of the Lord's goodness, from several, not to say many. Then would be anxious for the poor Husband! Well what shall I say? My feeling is - what can I render to the Lord, for all his benefits? I have in mercy been kept low, and low before the Lord, and He has caused the light of his holy countenance to beam upon me. Words fail to set forth his goodness, and unworthy as I feel myself to be. He has given me a large place. I believe (to his honour I must say it) in the hearts of all, and with the Apostle I can say - they have honoured me with many honours, but praised be the Holy Name, these have been permitted only to abase me: to give me a clearer sight of my unworthiness, to whom doth belong only blessing and confusion of face; and to the Lord, and to Him alone, have I ascribed the honor - whose works all praise bring.
 How I desire to be clothed with humility.

As friends seem as though they could not get together except in the evening. The collecting will sit close in time for me to get to bed late as the time I looked forward to, and last evening my friend, travelling for his health, told me that he was intending to proceed to Adair by the "overjoy", which is expected to sail about second day. perhaps we may go together -

Our gracious Master knows the work that he requires of me there - rightly it seems is proposed; and whatever it may be, I have full assurance that he would be pleased to provide me with suitable companions, if it be his holy will to do so. If not, I trust, to be preserved in reverent dependence upon them, who is the strength of his people - every present help in the painful time.

I have thought of you all, and would gladly, if I could, help with present busy season. I have also thought of the expense I am incurring, and of the relative positions of us all, as a family. The Lord, whose right it is, has laid his hand upon me and required me to labour in his vineyard, and I have but a short time to do the work in. He seems to be fulfilling his holy promise - made to me with day of my espousals to them - "Though thy beginning be but small, thy latter end shall greatly increase." and he seems to have bound me to them, in a perpetual covenant which shall not be forgotten. I tell my dear ones - that I shall endeavour to be as economical, as I can possibly be, and that I trust the Lord will make it up to them, in the way that he seems to be best for them.

I have called upon Betty Thrale Chewton, now upwards of 80. she remembered me, and rejoiced to see me, and though scarcely able to move, she said - she would be at meeting on first day - all things are the Lord's ways - she has had three attacks of apoplexy. - but the Dr now thinks that she may recover. her constitution is so excellent; but he will not allow any one to see her. I am informed.

I called to see Col Champ, but he was out. I met Mrs J. Crank with street, who wishes me to call and spend some time with her. I called at a shop in I think Elyth Street to enquire for Henry Jennings, who I was quoted with "Don't you remember your old servant, Mayfield?" - the name over the door.

I spent several day evening partly with J. G. James and partly at E. Hayes with the English friends. I dined and drank tea with Mrs. Worsfold & family - and visited the gardens and called upon Dr. Hedges, who was out. - I spent J. Hobbs called and the family with - I went out yesterday to the Philipps Pottery and other - see his wife - and some of his children, and returned with her to Ellensburg, and took tea with his daughter Frances Seemore, and today I am going to go out to barlow to pay a visit to friends named Seemore, who have given me a pressing invitation, and wish me to stay days.

My heart feels nearly united to them, and I am going to be joined with them on 11th. Two friends named Seemore, one another friend from Ballard came in - so I staid dinner - the two first engaged in agriculture, the latter an Engineer. Had some interesting talk. The Seemores cleve men - they described a process of unloading Hay, adopted here - viz. a Rope net, on which the Hay is built in the cart - and on arrival at the Stack - a horse is attached to a rope that passes through a snatch - block, and up goes the load, the derrick or shears, answering over the stack - one end of the net let go, the other raised and the Hay consequently lifts on the stack - It is obvious that the loads should be small and horse loads, or two, or three nets used to a load.

We had another favored meeting last evening, but we do not make much progress, seemingly, and when the meeting will terminate is uncertain.
It is the first annual meeting, and friends have tried their way. In the night a heavy fall of rain came on, and it still comes down - in bursts, rather unpleasant, but we do not but there seems symptoms of abate, and perhaps it may clear up in an hour.

I took tea with friends named Lewis - very sweet spirited people, - they have three children, the eldest a son about 15. with a nice youth, - and two daughters
- the children are very interesting. The meeting broke up about half past nine.

12th The rain continues - it took up about eleven o'clock and was dry till about 3. When it gradually came on to a sort of deluge - and so it continues.
Unless an abatement take place, the floods will be very high. The newly married couple started about 3 for Geelong, and to day were to proceed to ~~Geelong~~ Queen's Cliff, but I think that they will be kept close to their Inn. There was a large party, and the day passed pretty well. The meeting on the whole was comfortable. The chief service seems to devolve on one of the most unworthy of the followers of the Lamb.

The Meeting for business is to meet at 7 this evening; at the last a Committee was separated to draw up an Address to Friends every where in the Southern Hemisphere, - and an Epistle to the Annual Meeting of Friends of Hobart Town Tasmania - and the New Zealand Meeting of Adelaide.

The Lecturers said to me that they chiefly grow the Red Straw wheat, it yielded 10 bushels to the acre more than other wheat, and was less liable to rust and blight; they once grew the "golden drop", but that wheat has now dropped in public estimation. I asked for other name than "red-straw" but could get none. I then spoke of our "silver-skin", when after abt. - heads of the "red straw", and Canadian Oats, were produced the produce of last Harvest, which J. Scott had - and - to, to the best of my belief, ^(the red straw) it is our "silver-skin". I am not however a reliable authority. The Canadian says they say weights about 48 lbs to the bushel - and they can pack 6 bushels in a three bushel bag. Another friend from Holland sends his appearance of collecting yesterday. There seems to be an aversion towards friends, there. I was asked to go up - but my way seems to be to Australia - my heart is bound at present to that country. The night cometh when no man can work: - Oh! that I may be found in my lot at the end of my days.

13th I have just rec'd a letter from Hobart Town from dear J. B. M. enclosing a letter from dear James to me. May the Lord bless him abundantly - it has been a great comfort to me. I was glad to hear that Joseph arrived home safely.

The rain continued in regular or rather irregular bursts, and has made it difficult for some time to meet. It has fallen to my lot to deal plainly, very plainly, with friends, with as little wheat thrust as I can, and I trust that I have so affectionately pleaded on the Lord's behalf, that I have not done harm. The Lord in his abundant mercies is visiting his people and would redeem them, were they but a willing people. The cell seems to me to have gone forth to some to "come up higher" - they seem to shrink. Oh! may the Lord be gracious to them, and make them willing within day of his power. He is I am fully persuaded stretching forth over them the Crook of his love - a love - Oh how boundless - how beyond our finite conceptions - it passeth knowledge. How I long that both they and we may be filled with the fulness of God, and become a praise in the earth, showing forth the goodness of them who hath called us out of darkness into his marvellous light. Woods, my dear Anna, would fail me to set forth the goodness of the Lord to me his ever worthy servant how I have been kept, sustained, qualified, comforted and all to the praise of his glorious name be it said in love, humility and Christian meekness.

When I shall leave this is uncertain, but I do not intend writing again till I reach Adelaide. The covering sails on Tuesday day next - but there is no prospect of the collecting being ended by then. This will come by the Southern Cross, to sail tomorrow or will I trust reach there on fourth day evening - May it find you all well, and in the enjoyment of health of ~~the~~ peace.

J. J. W. is about 35 - a highly gifted minister - and one who seems to be very lowly minded. His Cousin about 24 - speaks fluently, and I doubt not with much sincerity, but I fear that he has not as yet got down deep enough. His amateness, or reasoning powers, are great. I desire that he may become wholly sanctified - body, soul and spirit. For I fear that the covering is not always the Lord's - nor the conversation such as befits a companion of the flock of Christ. It may be the Lord grants him a liberty - and an indulgence with held from some others - and I wish to abstain from harsh judgments - Let thy judgment be the Lord's - but thy mind is burdened somewhat with what seem to me to be inconsistent with the true Christian character. redemption from the world.

(half past ten) the Sun is now shining - and the weather is hopeful - if these heavy rains have also fallen in Tasmania, they will have benefitted the grass, grain crops, apples, green crops, but they will have proved trying to the newly shorn sheep.

The Doctor left Melbourne for Ballarat last evening - 100 miles in two hours - It is said that he passes to day in seclusion, being the Anniversary of his Father's death.

Bennet Robson is the name of the young man mentioned - a cousin of Walter Robson - this not strong - and he is to care here - seems uncertain these cold, wet days, try his coat. The thermometer was up on Sunday day to 16 with shade and yesterday down to 55.

The sisters mentioned a man in their neighbourhood called 'Larry' - lived in praise of our family, - but a drinking man - Father Larry Cryan? - they did not know his name.

And now my dearest I think I must conclude with dear love to thee and all our children and Dr Strong.

thy affectionate husband James Cotton

11. 30 Fort Waller has just called and brought his bill - I have had to suggest alterations - this still improving - He desires to be most kindly remembered to all at Melbourne.
